

Ablation

Ablation is (in orthopedics and traumatology) open or arthroscopic removal of a redundant part of bone (e.g. Haglund's exostoses)^[1], that is, surface irregularities or pathology. ^[2]

In gynecology, the term ablation is used for the removal of the entire breast.

Links

Related Articles

- Haglund's Exostosis

References

1. KOUDELA, K., et al. Ortopedie. 1. edition. Prague : Karolinum, 2004. ISBN 80-246-0654-2.
2. GALLO, George, et al. Ortopedie pro studenty lékařských a zdravotnických fakult. 1. edition. Olomouc : Palacký University in Olomouc, 2011. ISBN 978-80-244-2486-6.