

Isostenuria

A condition in which urine has the same relative density as plasma (i.e., 1,010) . It occurs when the kidneys lose the ability to dilute and concentrate urine . Isostenuria is a serious symptom of kidney damage .

See the Urine Test / Physical # Density page for more information .

Links

related articles

- Hypostenuria
- Hyperstenuria
- Relative urine density
- Examination of kidney function
- Urine examination

Source

- ŠPINAR, Jindřich and Ondřej LUDKA, et al. Propaedeutics and investigation methods of internal diseases. 2nd edition. Prague: Grada, 2013. ISBN 978-80-247-4356-1 .

Kategorie:Biochemie Kategorie:Klinická biochemie