

Pollakiuria

Polakisuria is the repeated evacuation of a small volume of urine even in short time intervals. Causes of pollakisuria include inflammation (cystitis, urethritis), lithiasis and emotional lability.^[1]

Links

Related Articles

- Examination of the child's uropoietic system
- Urinary tract infection
- Nocturia
- Dysuria

References

1. LEBL, Jan, Kamil PROVAZNÍK and Ludmila HEJCMANOVÁ, et al. Preclinical pediatrics. 2nd edition. Prague: Galén, 2007. pp. 139-146. ISBN 978-80-7262-438-6.

This article has been translated from WikiSkripta; ready for the editor's review.